

SANCTIONS

Financial sanctions are imposed to combat terrorist financing, money laundering and development of weapons of mass destruction. The United Nations ("UN") and European Union ("EU") are key international bodies that adopt international sanctions measures against countries and/or persons designated to be in violation of international laws. The process involves, Orders first being passed by the EU and UN and then implemented in the UK. If extended to the British Overseas Territories, such Orders are then gazetted in the Cayman Islands. Breaches of these Orders may constitute an offence for which fines and/or criminal convictions may result as such sanctions will apply to everyone in the Cayman Islands.

To help Cayman financial service providers comply with sanctions, this document contains a list of sanctions currently in force (in whole or part) in the Cayman Islands. The sanctions are listed by country with a brief summary of the relevant UK, UN, and EU Orders as well as some useful links associated to these Orders. This list should not serve as a substitute from referring to the relevant legislation.

The Cayman Islands Monetary Authority does not guarantee this list to be accurate, complete and up to date, therefore, it should not be relied upon as the sole source of information. It is the responsibility of the financial service provider to keep itself informed and up to date with all applicable sanctions and changes thereto.

Summary:

The Afghanistan (United Nations Measures) (Overseas Territories) Order 2012

This Order gives effect to UN Resolution 1988 (2011) which maintains in force the sanctions first imposed by UN Resolution 1267 (1999) against the Taliban. Through UN Resolution 1988 (2011), the Security Council split the sanctions regime into two groups, namely the Al-Qaida regime and the Afghanistan regime.

This Order continues the asset freeze in respect of the Taliban and persons associated with them that constitute a threat to the peace, stability and security of Afghanistan as well as to prohibit funds being made available to such persons. It also prohibits the supply of military goods and technical assistance related to military activities to designated persons.

LIBYA

Summary:

The Libya (Restrictive Measures) (Overseas Territories) Order 2011

This Order prohibits the supply or export of arms and related material along with equipment that may be used for internal repression to Libya. It also prohibits making funds, financial assets or economic resources available to designated persons and entities. Amendments were made to this Order whereby States no longer require the approval of the UN Sanctions Committee before selling, supplying or transferring arms or assistance to Libya where such activity is solely for the benefit of the Libyan Government for security or disarmament purposes. Neither do

States have to notify the UN Sanctions Committee when selling, supplying or transferring to Libya non-lethal military equipment or related technical assistance when it is intended solely for humanitarian or protective use. There is also an exemption in respect of the frozen accounts of EU listed persons who may now benefit from, or make, payments in accordance with judicial or administrative decisions or liens where such decisions or liens became enforceable after the persons were listed.

ZIMBABWE

Summary:

The Zimbabwe (Sanctions) (Overseas Territories) Order 2012

The main provisions include prohibition in respect of the sale or supply of arms, related material and equipment; the supply of technical assistance, training, financial and other specified forms of assistance as well as freezing funds and economic resources. A suspension and amendment Order in 2013 suspended financial sanctions provisions of the primary Order which gave effect in certain overseas territories to sanctions against Zimbabwe adopted by the Council of the European Union. On 27th March 2013, by Council Decision 2013/160/CFSP, in view of positive political developments in Zimbabwe, the application of all financial sanctions was suspended in relation to the majority of designated persons and entities (to be reviewed every three months). This Order also made minor corrections to the principal Order.
